

ABSTRACT

A method for delivering content includes processing the content to protect copyright of the content, deciding use conditions of the content, and describing a first 5 digital item or a second digital item in which the first digital item is defined in a form of Digital Item Declaration, the first digital item containing the content or an address of the content and being able to contain other digital items defined therein. In the describing 10 step, a first description regarding processing the content to protect the copyright of the content and a second description regarding the use conditions are both described in the first digital item.
